

Conference OVERVIEW

The Objective

The National Air Traffic Controllers Association is addressing the challenges facing the aviation industry in an aggressive manner. By attending this conference you can help plot the course of our industry through the open exchange of information. Participants are encouraged to interact with the speakers and other conference attendees and work together to develop new ideas for the future of aviation safety.

The Program

We'll discuss the latest hot topics along with the age-old problems that just don't seem to go away; the focus will be on inherent system, procedures and communication problems that always seem to occur when least expected.

We'll look for the reasons these errors occur and work on solutions to prevent their happenings in the future. Air traffic controllers, pilots and the Federal Aviation Administration will share their thoughts and experiences in panels and/or presentations.

Mark this event on your calendar as a "Must go!" Join other professionals to determine how to make your job easier and the airways safer. This is a professional seminar to help you in your work activities and may be eligible for tax benefits.

Representatives from AFA, ALPA, AOPA, APA, FAA, IFATCA, NASA, NATCA, SWAPA, the airlines, corporate and general aviation are expected to be in attendance. Industry leaders will moderate and facilitate the presentations and discussions on each topic. Panels and group interaction will work on presenting ideas for solving some of the issues faced by people that make up the aviation industry. Every attendee will have the opportunity to freely state their experiences and opinions on each subject.
